EXTRA CARE

Bamboo is a hardy plant but it does need special attention whilst establishing.

The rootball must be kept moist.

Frequent watering is essential for the first few weeks from planting.

That means daily or twice daily depending on weather and soil conditions.

The larger the plant, the more water and frequency is needed.

Dripper tube (Techline) watering is useless for bamboo establishment.

Hand watering or heavy output drippers (shrubblers) directly onto the rootball must be incorporated with the initial care.

Do not cease watering when it has rained.
